

Journal of Lasers in Oncology

Editorial Message

I am elated to announce the launch of GHJ-Lasers in Oncology. The journal is a bi-annual peer-reviewed international journal that has been created with the idea to share and propagate scientific knowledge in the clinical applications, innovations and advances in cancer care, with a dedicated focus on LASER. The Journal is open to all clinicians, researchers and allied professionals involved in cancer care and treatment.

The initial focus of this journal would be to update and exchange information related to both surgical and non-surgical aspects of laryngeal pathology. GHJ-Lasers in Oncology would evolve into a platform to discuss about laryngeal cancer management, phonosurgery, phagosurgery, neurolaryngology, speech and swallow therapy. The subsequent journal issues would also explore the scope of Laser in other oncological subspecialties.

We are now welcoming submissions for our journal and I call upon researchers and clinicians alike to unify our efforts towards better cancer care.

Regards,

Dr Devendra Chaukar
Editor-in- Chief